Visualization for high throughput screening data

Oleg Sklyar

April 30, 2008

splots is a small utility package with visualization routines for high throughput screens. It started as a spin-off from the cellHTS package, with the function `plotScreen`.

1 The `plotScreen` function

Short code example with made up data to produce a plot.